Workshops

Shame: John Lynch

Shame hisses, "Something is uniquely and particularly wrong with me, and I'll never escape it." No assuaging, right behavior, or achievement will silence it. Only trusting in your new identity can break the power of this voice. Learn a way of seeing God and your past that will allow you to experience healing from shame's power.

Taking off the Masks: John Lynch

From the garden, we have fashioned masks to protect ourselves from the pain and nakedness of facing our failure, our wrong, our sense of not measuring up. Learn how a community can create safety that allows me and others to live authentically in an environment of grace, protecting each other and giving permission to each other.

Sex As God Meant it To Be:

Dr. Melinda Reinicke and Aaron J. Reinicke, MFT

Can your love ever be good again after so much conflict? Yes! Gentle strategies and take-home exercises to leave the past behind. You and your wife can enjoy nurturing each other emotionally, spiritually and sexually.

Creating a Shame-Free, Father-Son Relationship: Aaron J. Reinicke, MFT and Son

Dads and sons, do you want your relationship to be more open, safe and real? It's more than just learning how to have the "sex talk," but how to develop emotional safety to have real connection with each other. See how this father and son are doing it.

The Power of a Connected Father

Every man bears the image of God and a reflection of His power. The grime of addiction blocks out the brilliance and clouds our memories of ever having any real connection to God at all. Learn how to let God remove the grime and resume your role of reflecting the Father's glory to your children.

No childcare will be provided. This conference is for adult men and teen boys accompanied by an adult.
